

MORNING APPEAL

SATURDAY AUGUST 17, 1878

BEECHER AND OTHER PARAGRAPHS

There was something remarkable at work in the "wastes and burdens" of New England society, in the years which saw the Washburnes, the Fields and the Beechers of our time born into this world of politics, law and religion. It is no new thing to call to one's attention—the surprising aggregate and sharing of talent in those three Yankee families. It would be difficult to decide in which of the three families named has been developed the greatest degree of useful and commanding ability. The three illustrious sons of the paternal Washburne who at one time held seats in Congress have performed much valuable service for their country at home and abroad. The three illustrious sons of the Field family, David, Stephen and Cyrus, have lent luster to American judiciary and force and enterprise to American science. Lyman Beecher, the father of the most famous author of her day and of the most popular and gifted clergyman of the Republic, helped his son and daughter to constitute a trio whose renown is not less broad and brilliant than that of the triumvirate of the Washburnes and the Fields. It is a rare privilege which is accorded to our townspeople this evening—the privilege of hearing a lecture from the Rev. Henry Ward Beecher. As a public speaker he ranks second to no man living. His hold upon the great congregation of Plymouth church is strengthened year by year. There must be vast power and unparalleled originality in a preacher who thus sustains himself in the presence of the sharpest criticism, the keenest intellectual rivalry and the most exacting of audiences. And it is as a famous public lecturer that Mr. Beecher is to be regarded; and in this light he stands in the very foremost rank of his contemporaries. The MORNING APPEAL does not need to tell its readers that the New Opera House in Carson will be opened to the public this evening, for the first time to give our townspeople an opportunity to hear this very celebrated gentleman. Go early, get seated quietly and "applaud in the right place."

An inquiry as to what was likely to be done in the matter of Professor Clark, now in jail for the murder of Albert Adams, informs us that the Grand Jury to whom it is proposed to submit his case will not be called together until some time next month.

"Pant" got a letter yesterday from our old Oroville friend Dick Hudson. Dick, we regret to say, has got into a dreadful scrape. He has been made a Postmaster! We never thought that Dick would come to that. His "cross-roads" is Mimbres, Hot Springs, New Mexico. We never knew so much good material misappropriated as when they took Dick Hudson and converted him into a Nashy!

EPISCOPAL SOIREE.

We are glad to be permitted to make the pleasing announcement that the ladies of St. Peter's Episcopal Church will have one of their delightful reunions at Mrs. Dr. Harris' residence (the Noteware place), on Monday evening next, the 19th instant. There will be ice-cream and lemonade and the fascinating smiles of the ladies, and the broad and manly politeness of the sterner sex, and music, and here and there a bit of dancing just for the picturesqueness of things. Everybody is invited and ought to go.

PERSONAL.—Grant Israel was in the city yesterday. Keeps up an exemplary gait, does the old man, and looks like a jay-bird of the ancient type. Glad to shake his venerable hand! Old Buck (ingham) of Storey got off the cars long enough to take a hand shake with the depoteers last evening. He is the headlight of a numerous party of Virginians and Gold Hillers who were going to the Lake on a fishing and picnicking excursion. Good luck to 'em!

GOING HOME.—Eli Perasich (known to Carsonites as the one of the brothers who was wounded during the break at the prison in '71, while on guard at that institution) took the cars last night on his way to his home in Dalmatia besides the waters of the Adriatic Sea. Fourteen years ago he left the old home and this is his first return thither. We wish him a most heartily and pleasant voyage and happy journey back to the sagebrush.

IN TOWN.—Our friend Pratt, of Genoa, was in the city for a few hours yesterday. He will very soon resume the publication of the Carson Valley News, in smaller form, however, than the old issue. Shall be glad to renew the acquaintance of that excellent weekly.

MR. WILLIAM A. HAWTHORNE arrived from a prolonged prospecting tour in Southern Esmeralda yesterday. Looks hearty and thinks he has struck it. Hope so!

AUSTIN VISITED BY A FLOOD.

THE "REVELLE" OFFICE A WRECK.

At 4 o'clock on Thursday afternoon Austin was visited by a terrible deluge of water which swept everything before it on Main street. One man, named Sparrum, was drowned. The Revelle office, building and all, is a complete ruin. The presses and material are broken and piled past recovery. Yesterday another cloud burst came. The dispatch concludes as follows: At 11 A. M., a heavy shower of rain and hail set in, accompanied by thunder and lightning. It lasted about five minutes and the skies cleared off. In a few moments the Manhattan mill whistled sounded an alarm, and men came down the street on horseback shouting "the water," "the water." The people mostly took to the hills, but the usual number of fools tried to save worthless articles. In about five minutes the advance of the water came down Main street, and soon that street was again the channel of a stream. The water this time came slowly, only about a foot in depth, and though it still flows, has wrought no additional damage. No lives were lost. The people are down-hearted and discouraged. The Revelle cannot issue to-day, as intended. The press is ruined and the type scattered. It will resume as soon as possible. Everybody is worn out with work and excitement.

BISHOP'S DIRECTORY.

We knew Bishop when the art of printing was yet in its cradle, as it were. He and Ben Franklin were apprentices together in Boston under the old colonial system. Good, old fashioned printer, that same Bishop. But Directories is his strong suit. It is there he does most elaborately spread himself. We have in our possession his latest Directory. It is that which includes the business populations of Virginia City, Gold Hill, Silver City, Carson and Reno. It is the handsomest and completest work of the kind ever compiled. The publishers have hit on a new dodge which is highly gratifying. On the front of the leaves as you look at the unopened book are finger holes gouged into the paper so as to enable one to open the book instantly, at either of its several departments—each town being a department in itself. It is fun to open such a book. We shall take pleasure in prospecting among its pages just for the pleasure of practicing on the new dodge. Carson City is prefaced by a historical sketch of some seven pages. This contains many facts quite new to the greater run of readers and is very well constructed. The writer evidently took pains to inform himself and made the most of his materials without making too much of them. The enumeration and roster of officers, State, federal and county, the municipal government, fire department, schools, churches, secret societies, military etc., are all correct, full and satisfactory. The Carson Directory proper, embraces no less than 56 pages and is very full and singularly free from errors. This is a valuable and reliable work and should be on every business man's desk.

THE NORTH CARSON.—Superintendent Gould of the North Carson mine left on last night's express train for San Francisco. He goes below hoping that the company may be in a humor to raise the requisite funds to resume operations upon that very promising property. He takes with him the best wishes not only of the MORNING APPEAL but the citizens of Carson in general. He expects to return as soon as next Wednesday.

THE FUNERAL of the late Mr. Marlo was quite numerously attended yesterday afternoon. The services took place at the Catholic Church.

JOB WORK.

The MORNING APPEAL establishment is prepared to perform job work at rates a long way below the prices which obtained in the earlier and purer days of the Republic.

BILL HEADS.

The MORNING APPEAL office (which is provided with the most extensive assortment of book and job material in Nevada), will print bill heads, on the finest and best of paper as cheaply as they can be procured in Sacramento.

POSTERS.

The MORNING APPEAL job office is better prepared to print posters, handbills and dodgers than any establishment between San Francisco and Omaha. Come and inquire the prices.

BILLS OF FARE.

Our strong suit, (if we may be indulged in the expression), is the printing of bills of fare. To speak after the manner of the profane and gaudy, we beat the deck on bills of fare. As to price, that is a mere secondary consideration.

SHIPPING TAGS.

If there is any one thing that the MORNING APPEAL can do better than another, it is to print, at the most preposterously low rates, the shipping tags so much needed by the mercantile community.

NOTICE.

The public is hereby notified that Mr. Ricard is no longer authorized to collect money for the undersigned. J. M. BENTON. Carson City, Nevada, August 13, 1878.
